More people became members of the Osceola Library System in September 2023 than any previous month in the past five years. This statistic, one of many the Library tracks, tells us so much about how our community is rediscovering the joy and opportunities contained within their local library. We are so excited to welcome everyone back.

Public libraries are certainly having a moment right now, not just in Osceola but all over the country. With President Barack Obama’s heartfelt thank you letter to librarians, the Milwaukee Public Library’s amazing Instagram account, Mychal Threets’ viral affirmations for our youngest patrons, and The New York Times’ “Love Letter to Libraries, Long Overdue,” a window is opening to what you and I probably already know - libraries are the beating heart of a supportive, healthy, welcoming and educated community and THE place to be.

The Osceola Library System offers an exhaustive array of collections, programs, and services for the community that save money, enhance learning, build friendships, and enrich lives. But what makes the Osceola Library System especially beneficial to the community is that everyone is welcome to use all these wonderful things in BIG and SMALL ways. Big ways that can affect your life success, educational opportunities, access to health and government services, building blocks for reading and communication, and exposure to technology and creative outlets. Or small, personal ways as a space to gather, relax, recharge, and connect. Both are critical to the Library being the hub of a thriving community and define it as a unique and special community place. It is both incredible and essential.

We invite you to discover what everyone is talking about, become a member, help us break more records of library use, and experience the joy of the public library in both big and small ways.

Welcoming spaces for creation and innovation

The Hot Spot debuted at the Buenaventura Lakes Library. With outdoor bench seating and workspace, fast Wi-Fi and space to spread out, this new “hot spot” enables the community to gather and use Internet service even when the Library isn’t open.

Five new modular spaces provide private areas for collaboration and quiet study for individuals and small groups featuring two Mac computers equipped with graphic design software, one with sewing machines for personal projects or with instruction from a staff member, plus a Cricut for exciting crafting projects.

Resources during and after disasters

The Hart Memorial Library served as a Disaster Recovery Center (DRC) during Hurricanes Ian and Nicole. It was a physical and informational resource for the community before, during, and after the hurricanes. The Library hosted the Federal Emergency Management Association local response teams, along with the Small Business Administration and several local and state agencies that administer relief or aid for citizens in need. In addition, state emergency management personnel installed mobile registration intake centers at the Buenaventura Lakes, Poinciana, and St. Cloud Libraries to facilitate more service points for those affected by Hurricane Ian. Library staff contributed 507 hours of service over two weeks by serving in Osceola County’s Citizens Information Center in the lead up to, during, and aftermath of Hurricane Ian.

Adults

Bright Community Trust delivers Financial Empowerment Seminars at the Hart Memorial Library to support their BIPOC@Home initiative to address the gap in homeownership for Black, Indigenous and People of Color.

Orlando Center for Justice supports the Hello Project/Proyecto Hello, monthly meetings at the Buenaventura Lakes Library to help new immigrants navigate the citizenship process.

The St. Cloud Library’s Central Florida Business Group brings local business leaders together to share ideas, network and forge new paths for business development in the region.

Career Online High School graduated 9 individuals who completed the coursework and career certificate program, resulting in a Florida high school diploma and extra knowledge in key local industries such as hospitality, manufacturing and commercial driving.

Here to Help is a partnership between the Hope Partnership and the Library to offer regular opportunities to connect citizens with much needed resources like employment planning and food assistance in the convenience of the Hart Memorial Library.

“Very kind people, helped me get a library card, very satisfied, and will definitely be coming here more often :)”

Start Smart with Money: Financial Literacy for Kids, presented by Chase Bank in conjunction with Habitat for Humanity Greater Orlando and Osceola County, shows it’s never too early to learn about money management like budgeting, credit cards and loans.

Hands-on Health: Exploring a Career in Healthcare is a grant-funded program that helps school-age kids explore a future healthcare career with immersive activities using medical technology.

Disney Engineers It enables kids to explore a career in engineering with Walt Disney World industrial engineers, with the help of Mr. Potato Head, and get hands-on practice with engineering tips and tricks from the people who help make magic every day.

Creation Station Art Shop at the Buenaventura Lakes Library has kids exploring financial literacy in a meaningful and fun way by assigning a “dollar” value to art supplies then setting a budget to “shop” with before creating an artistic masterpiece.

“Pleasant space to read, research and gather books. Knowledgeable librarians too. There are even STEAM kits created and check out ready!”

Virtual Innovation

Digital resources make researching and learning easy

Udemy features over 19,000 videos on topics ranging from management and coding to chess and music. Instruction is available in English, Spanish, and 10 other languages by experts from around the world. Digital Sanborn maps “chart the growth and development of 12,000 American towns and cities” and are indispensable for local history research and genealogy. It gives a window back into a city’s or town’s past to see exactly what was located on each block or street. The Library added new content with Candid, especially for non-profits or community members seeking to find grant opportunities and partner with other non-profits. And auto-repair is now at your fingertips with Chilton Automotive.

All databases are accessible through the Library’s website and free with an Osceola Library card!

New website launches

With improved organization and navigation, the newly redesigned website debuts one-click access to digital resources, greater discoverability for important information such as locations and hours, expanded meeting room information and an enhanced Youth section. It seamlessly integrates forms, video, and digital content with an appealing, mobile-friendly, accessible and user-friendly design.
Helpful InfoGuides created using LibGuides

Providing organized templates in an easy to use format, LibGuides provides a platform to connect patrons to well-curated information on a host of topics. Made by Librarians to help wrangle the wealth of information on the Internet and to include Library databases and collections in that research, the Library has created InfoGuides using LibGuides on a host of helpful topics such as Adulting 101, Black History Month and ESOL and Citizenship.

LibCal makes rooms and events more accessible

With LibCal, the Library’s new room and event management system, making meeting plans and attending programming events is now more user-friendly and transparent. View events by branch, month, week, or type of program; see room availability in real-time hour by hour to make informed choices; schedule appointments with Librarians and Notaries at your convenience; and make reservations for the in-demand rooms and technology in TechCentral.
Community Visibility

Express lockers make pickup and return a breeze

The Narcoossee and Reunion communities now have access to Express Lockers. These lockers allow patrons to pick up and return materials at their convenience. The Narcoossee Express Locker is located at the Narcoossee Community Center, which is a County park facility situated in the growing suburbs between St. Cloud and Orange County. The second Express Locker is located outside the Reunion Fire Station in the southwest part of the County. Both locker locations hosted grand openings featuring County Commissioners Ricky Booth and Peggy Choudhry, respectively.

Library staff provided storytimes and technology tutoring for several months leading up to the launches. The Express Lockers are funded by a Library Services and Technology Act (LSTA) grant through the Florida Division of Library and Information Services.
Osceola Arts mural beautifies Hart Memorial Library

In partnership with Osceola Arts, the Hart Memorial Library was gifted a beautiful and eye-catching mural on its southeastern exterior wall facing Johnston Street and the Kissimmee Lakefront Park. Created by Justin “Skip” Skipper over several hot days in July, the brightly colored mural entitled “Day & Night” features all the best of lakeside living like fishing, cranes and waves of blue all under the spotlight of the iconic Kissimmee Lighthouse on Lake Tohopekaliga. The mural draws visitors to the Library for photo ops and appreciation.

Library Card Sign Up Month provides historic results

In recognition of Library Card Sign Up Month, the Show Your Card, Osceola campaign gives a boost to local economic activity and drives up library use by engaging businesses to feature a discount program for Osceola Library card holders. Twenty businesses participated, ranging from restaurants to tattoo parlors, and were provided with Library-branded marketing materials to promote the program. Business owners were very happy to support the Library and see new customers! “I had two clients sign up with me. It may not seem like much but it’s a good number due to the type of service I provide. I was very pleased with the results!” said Vannessa H. Weber of Veracity Research Solutions, LLC. Library card drives at the Osceola County Courthouse and Adult Learning Center of Osceola reached new potential users. The Library issued 1,427 Library cards in September which is the most cards issued in one month since August 2018.
Programming for all ages highlights diversity

Programs for all ages reflect Osceola's growing diversity. Through storytelling, arts, crafts, music and dance, the Library is the place to learn about countries around the world, holidays and observances, handicrafts and traditions, inclusivity and positivity while engaging in learning and exploration of these enriching new connections.

Here are just a few programs offered during the year:

Celebrate Diwali - the Festival of Lights:
This program introduces school age children to the Hindu festival of Diwali through crafts, storytime and henna designs.

International Festival: This signature annual event brings together education and entertainment as many important world cultures are highlighted through dance, art, music and food.

Over the Rainbow storytimes: In celebration of Pride Month storytellers highlight joyful and validating stories of families of all types.

Cooking with Culture: Authentic Puerto Rican cuisine was on the menu for this tasty cultural introduction.

Sensory Playdates: All five senses are explored in this welcoming storytime particularly great for children on the autism spectrum or with sensory challenges.

Library for All: Inclusive Activities for Adults: This program provides a social and educational outlet for adults with varying intellectual and physical ability with fun group activities like Bingo for Books.
From A to Zine: Creating self-published mini magazines complete with photos, art, literature, and topical essays provided patrons with a new way of self-expression.

Creativity Corner: This school-age program brings to life the works of famous artists and their unique art style, in particular women artists and those with strong cultural and personal identity and influence, such as Jean-Michel Basquiat, Alma Thomas, and Yayoi Kusama, who was featured in celebration of Asian Pacific Heritage Month.

Maker’s Café: This adult program uses crafting and hands-on creations to create awareness for a variety of cultures and historical events, such as Women’s History Month and Hispanic Heritage Month.

Free Comic Book Day: Comic Books are often the most accessible literature for reluctant readers, and we celebrated their power and entertainment with activities and giveaways.

Tiny Art Show: Tiny canvases tell big stories in this artistic showcase.

“Very calm and huge library. Tech makers space with opportunities for 3D printing, video and audio editing; super spacious children section upstairs, lots of computer work places, and of course plenty of books, magazines, audiobooks, movies, .... They also offer a good selection of classes!! Very friendly and welcoming desk staff.”

How-To Fest is both simple and ingenious

This one-stop-shop for learning and skill building was a fun and enriching afternoon at the Hart Memorial Library to try something new in a supportive environment. Instructional topics included Vegan Baking, Learning How to Juggle and How to Become a Foster Parent. The How-To Festival is set up in a conference style with participants choosing from a variety of topics within a time slot with experts giving hands-on demonstrations on everyday life skills. Participants walk away with confidence and hands-on experience in areas they’ve always wanted to explore.

“Very professional...knew exactly what to do...always a great help”

LitMag features the best and brightest creative youth

LitMag, the literary magazine for Osceola youth, celebrated its 6th year in publication with a reception for the winners of the writing and art contest. Creative teens and tweens have the distinction of having their works published in print in a glossy professional magazine and online through the BiblioBoard digital publishing platform. The featured authors and artists were selected by celebrated local authors Jan Eldredge, Isabelle Olmo (Brenda Hernandez) and Arielle Haughee. The winners, along with their families, were invited to a reception, honoring their artistic contributions in which their works were read aloud. The guest authors kicked off the event with a fascinating presentation on how they broke into the publishing world, exploring the topics of self-publishing, working within the big publishing businesses and even starting a publishing company as a way to get into the marketplace.

“Love this location ... The staff is very helpful, they go above and beyond to accommodate. Also the different programs available for the community are amazing.”
